Mes Dames et Amies,

This is an ugly little request: Can you lend me, for precisely a week, the considerable amount of $200?

... I am in such a mess - with my business manager out of town for vacations (Mrs. Seufert is pregnant and needs the fresh air, as you can easily see) and the printer's bill knocking angrily at my door. ~~But~~

On top of everything there is this complication with the frozen bank accounts. Today I had a rendezvous with a dwarf from Zürich (he is a hunchback as well, to be perfectly frank), who had promised me to take over five of our shares, and is still willing to do so. This morning, however, he received me with an impish grin: "I ~~am~~ frozen..." - Next week, he swears...

But the printer's bill! And tomorrow the hungry crowd of my secretaries and assistant editors have their pay-day.

It's only for a week! - : great big Sanary - anti-Nazi - old times friendship - Winston Churchill - Dorothy Thompson - serious editor - parole d'honneur.

I shall give you a ring in the morning - with my voice trembling with hope and nervousness.

Thanks and regards,

Yours, KLAUS

(harassed editor.)

P.S. Erika arrives here tomorrow - on her way to London!! She has a clipper reservation for June 26 .
