Dear Professor, Stern, -

thank you very much for your letter of January 3rd with its most interesting enclosure.

As for my father's letters to Dr. Guggenheim, I am not really the one to give - or withhold - any permission. My mother owns all of my father's copy-rights, and ordinarily I should have to get in touch with her. Since, however, your publications seem of a rather exclusive sort I see no reason why you should not include said letters in your forthcoming article.

Please be so kind as to send me a copy of your article on Wolfskehl. And thanks very much for your friendly reaction to Das letzte Jahr.

Very sincerely yours

PS. No mistake can be found on your carbon copy of my father's letter. Hence I am not returning it. Regarding the Hexenprozesse, I don't quite understand what you mean. Of course, you know all about the Hexenprozesse and you also know that these medieval atrocities are mentioned in DOKTOR FAUSTUS both, directly, and indirectly, i.e. in connection with Adrian's studies, as well as in connection with Zeitblom and his observations on himself. Actually I am not completely certain whether Zeitblom mentions the Hexenprozesse in so many words. But obviously, they would be very "einschlägig" anyhow.
