Dear Professor Smith,

will you please excuse my tardiness in replying to your letter of November 16th. But it took me some time to get the situation straightened out.

Unfortunately, there is only one letter Aldous wrote to my father. It isn't even a letter, really, but Aldous' contribution to a collection of short tributes and the like brought together by his publishers on the occasion of his 60th birthday.

For the rest, Aldous and my father saw each other frequently in Sanary and from time to time in California. However, I doubt that there has been any correspondence. At any rate, none exists at the archives.

I wonder whether you would be interested in four or five letters written in French to my late brother Klaus. If so I could have them copied for you.

Yours very sincerely,
