Dearest Fürstin, -

just have ¹⁸an hour ago, I finally got hold of "Verfremdung und Freundschaft". Of course, Zenta Maurina failed to send the book and I promptly ordered it. Why it should have taken so long for the volume to reach me I do not know. At any rate, however, the essay makes arresting and engaging reading even for one who knows familiar with the subject. Also, I like the way "Out of these Roots" is interwoven with the theme proper. Thanks for telling me.

Here everything is fairly alright. Some seven weeks ago, my mother managed to break her right arm near the wrist. But although it was a rather nasty splintered fracture, it healed like a twenty year old's bone. Even so it will take some months before the hand will have fully recovered.

As for myself, doctor's orders caused me to buy an automatic "Mustang" (I can't shift gears anymore) which makes me a little more independent and "grown up". I am always busy.

Golo, far busier, is about to curtail his various time-devouring activities in favour of a major book on Wallenstein. Yet, as I am writing this, the TV people are installing their stuff downstairs in our father's former study for Golo to make an appearance.

Much love to you and all the best for Christmas and that uncanny 1967.

Yours as ever devote~~d~~dly,
