Dearest Fürstin, -

thanks ever so much for thinking of me. Things are most uncertain as far as I am concerned. Just now I am following doctor's orders and have myself transported to Leukerbad in the Wallis - a most complicated and painful trip which has to be conducted by the "Bergrettungswacht". Ambulances, a very small plane and a helicopter are involved - apart from myself and weather conditions that get lousier from day to day. The doctor's say that once upon a time a case of my type has slightly improved at Leukerbad. So there...

Of course, it would be absolutely lovely to see you some time in August and I do hope that I shall be back home in Zurich at that time. However, I am by no means my own master.

Even my work on volume three of the letters is endangered. The book won't be "our volume" to the same degree as was volume II. Nevertheless, there are numerous letters to you, and the continuity of your correspondence with T.M. will show clearly enough.

I have been flat on my back for the past eleven month - an extremely helpless position to be in, with pains to cope with on top of it all. So it would be nice if jolly old Leukerbad could help even a wee bit.

All the very best to you.

Yours as ever

affectionately and devotedly,
