Prof. Joseph Campbell
136 Waverly Place
New York City 14

Dear Professor Campbell, -

as you may - or may not - have heard, I am engaged in editing three volumes of selected letters by my father. Of course, there is a great deal of correspondence between him and Mrs. Agnes E. Meyer to be considered, and your name figures repeatedly in that correspondence. What I do not know, however, is whether a letter addressed to a Mr. Campbell (with no christian name mentioned) was ever received by yourself. The letter is dated January 6, 1941 and concerns a lecture entitled "Permanent Human Values" which "Mr. Campbell" had delivered and subsequently sent to T. M.

Somehow I feel fairly certain that you are the "Mr. Campbell" concerned. But I should have to be entirely sure and hence should be much obliged if you'd let me know whether you were the recipient of the communication in question. Also I'd be glad to learn if the lecture was delivered at Sarah Lawrence's - and if not, where else.

Thanking you in advance for your kind cooperation,

I am yours very sincerely,
