Dear Vera Biro, -

kindest thanks for your letter of June 24th. Along with my apologies for not having answered before. But as it goes, I happen to be invalided for the past six months, having had the intelligence to break my left foot in such an extraordinary way that it doesn't even show any intention of healing in the none too distant future. For while I have been away on Ischia in the forlorn hope the local mud (Fango) might do me any good. Nothing doing. On Ischia I was minus my typewriter and as I am not cruel enough to torture even my closest friends with my handwriting, no writing was done on the island. Hence this tardy reply.

I need hardly tell you that I should be only too happy to interest myself actively in your father's brilliant plays. Unfortunately, however, I am so extremely busy with my own father's literary estate, as well as with that of my late brother Klaus that I could not possibly take it upon myself to assume any additional responsibilities.

All the same, I should think that GODS AND KINGS would have a very real chance in Germany as well as in Austria and Switzerland. provided some truly qualified person would take care both, of the translation, and the distribution of rights.

Thank you again for your kind letter.

Best wishes and the friendliest regards from

yours very sincerely
