Dear Mr. Bercovici, -

please forgive me for having been so tardy. But my mother had to be operated on - and one way or another there always seems to be some reason for one's correspondence to go to pieces.

I am very glad that Aubrey Blackburn whom, of course, I know by repute, liked the play even in its original form. Nevertheless the alterations now envisaged cannot but do it good.

As for the original contract with my father which you think still to be valid, I should much like to see that document.

But since you are planning that short trip to Innsbruck and are ready to go by way of Zurich, it will be perfectly sufficient for you to bring the paper along. Needless to say you'll be highly welcome here; moreover, I do think a good talk will be mutually beneficial.

All the best to you.

Yours very sincerely,
