Prague, June 30th, 1947.

Dearest Mildred,-

will you please forgive me for not calling yesterday? But knowing how little happy you feel about all this, I thought it nicer to disappear sans adieu. I am fully aware, though, of all you have done to help me - and Klaus - and wish to thank you, not merely "officially", but privately as well and in the most cordial fashion.

The enclosed "official one" was written for the record. You are, of course, welcome to put it to any possible use.

My plans for the near future are in the (very hot) air. As soon as the next steps and stations are decided upon I shall let you know.

All my best meanwhile. What a sad and unnecessary mess! You may imagine that I am worried - and NOT, believe me, primarily for personal reasons.

Bless you!
